Circa 1845. A simple aisleless rectangle of 5 bays in Early Gothic style. Steep tile roof with western bell turret. Brownstone rubble walling, with ashlar dressings. Parapet is supported on brackets. Hoodmould to tall lancet openings continues from springer level as a weathering band. Below this level are stepped buttresses, a cill band and plinth. The eastern gable has a quatrefoil above triple lancets and the western has a large traceried light above moulded arched doorway.
